BRIDGETT FREEMAN

CO-FOUNDER, WRITER, ACTOR, DIRECTOR

Bridgett first got involved in podcasting as the voice of Carla Hayes in 'Olive Hill.'

She is originally from Whitesburg, Kentucky, in the Appalachian mountains. She moved to Lexington, Kentucky for college, where she majored in Writing.

Before joining Imaginary Comma, Bridgett wrote and narrated "Proper English Y'all," and she's the author of '31: An October Collection.'

In her spare time, she's a witch and an aerialist.

BROOKE JENNETT

CO-FOUNDER, WRITER, ACTOR, DIRECTOR

Brooke grew up in Western Kentucky and moved to Lexington for College.

She began her voice acting career as Esther Snow in 'Olive Hill.' Since then she's voiced numerous roles in 'Thirteen.'

In addition to voice acting Brooke also acts as a Director, Script Editor, Producer and professional 'Final Girl.'

When she's not acting or editing you can almost always find her in the kitchen. Either at home or at her day job: managing a local bakery.

IAN EPPERSON

CO-FOUNDER, WRITER, ACTOR, DIRECTOR

Ian began his podcasting journey as the only one in the group who listened to podcasts. If it weren't for Ian, his vision for 'Olive Hill,' and his love of audio drama, Imaginary Comma wouldn't exist.

Ian is from Lexington, where he resides now with his very cute family comprised of some humans and numerous cats.

Ian's work within Imaginary Comma includes writer, director, actor, narrator, and Demi God (inactive).

CALEB RITCHIE

EDITOR, SOUND DESIGNER, COMPOSER

Caleb has composed for several podcasts and scores each episode of 'Thirteen.'

Also an accomplished writer Caleb wrote the 'Thirteen' episode 'The Long Weekend.'

Caleb has lived in Kentucky nearly all his life. He moved to Lexington for college and lives there now with his husband and family.

You can find his work in the improvisational podcast 'This is Yallcomeback' and download his single 'Atlantis' wherever you listen to music.
